Children to Help Decorate Airports With Ornaments They Created

Washington's Airports will be transformed into "Winter Wonderlands" this week with a little help from some artistic area schoolchildren. The Metropolitan Washington Airports Authority is hosting students from the District of Columbia, Virginia and Maryland for our third annual tree-trimming celebration. The students crafted ornaments with the theme "Winter Wonderland" and will be decorating trees at both Ronald Reagan Washington National Airport and Washington Dulles International Airport.

The trees will be on display for our passengers to enjoy throughout the month of December.
